FROM THE EDITOR

Christine Reppert
Director of Public Relations

The fall of 1989 will be remembered in the history of the College as the time when all full-time freshmen received their computers. Although last year marked the establishment of the Computer Focus program, it was a year of preparation. For the faculty, it was a time of learning and experimentation, as they got acquainted with their computers and explored applications for coursework.

Student services and maintenance had the responsibility of figuring out logistics of distributing 141 computers and printers. The new Computer Focus director, Keith Hamon, scheduled orientation sessions and workshops.

All of campus looked forward with special anticipation to the arrival of the Tri-K Pirates and the culmination of the first stage of Computer Focus. For an update on how the students feel about the program and some ways in which faculty are using the computers as learning tools, see page 2.

In this issue of the magazine, we have begun what we hope will be a continuing feature—articles highlighting successful alumnae. The entrepreneur seminar, held in November and co-sponsored by an alumna and the D. Abbott Turner Center for the Advancement of Women in Business, is our springboard for the alumnae features. Three of the seminar participants are graduates of Wesleyan.

We welcome your suggestions for names of alumnae who you feel should be subjects of future articles. The only problem we anticipate is having to choose one or two women out of so many successful Wesleyan.

For those of you who haven't seen the October 16, 1989 issue of U.S. News and World Report, turn to page 1. Wesleyan was listed as one of America's Best Colleges for the second year in a row. Congratulations to all of you for helping make it possible! ☺

For the second year in a row, Wesleyan has been named one of America's Best Colleges by U.S. News and World Report magazine. Out of the top 10 regional liberal arts colleges in the South, Wesleyan is ranked number six.

Only two other Georgia colleges are listed. Twelve states are included in the Southern region and 384 colleges were included in the regional liberal arts category.

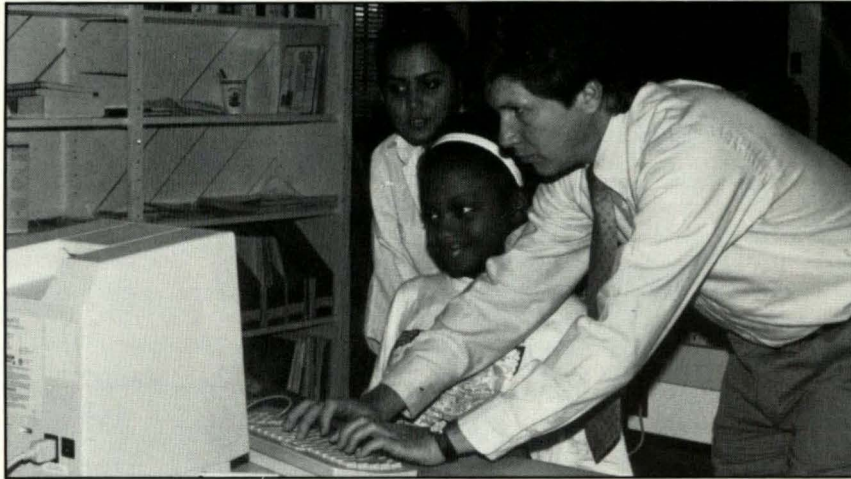

The survey is based on the caliber of the student body, reputation of the college, quality of the faculty, resources, and retention. Wesleyan had an overall score of 91.4 out of 100.

What this ranking really means is that, because of you—students, alumnae, trustees, faculty, administration, and staff—Wesleyan continues to receive the national recognition she deserves. Congratulations! 🎉

Computer Focus: The Wesleyan Way to Teach and Learn

Keith Hamon, Computer Focus director, explains a Macintosh program to sophomore Phaedra Parks (seated) and senior Shefali Pathak.

When freshmen students swung open the doors to their rooms this fall, they were greeted by new and different roommates...computers with software and printers which are theirs to keep upon graduation.

After only a few months, Computer Focus is already providing new and innovative methods to learn and teach...making it easier, more productive, and even fun. For example, students in Bill Curry's introductory psychology class have access to a computer therapist program that simulates a therapy session.

What's It Like To Have A Computer?

Slowly, but surely, sparks of energy and interest are coming from students, especially the freshmen class, as they learn to compute. They are using their computers to write papers, to file class notes, to print club newsletters, to manage data on spread sheets, and to develop their own applications.

Freshman Daniella Pedersen of Varde, Denmark, has this to say about her new computer: "At home, we did not have a computer and I did not really miss it. I was doing fine with my pen and typewriter. Since I came to Wesleyan, I found that a computer makes your schoolwork a lot easier. It is a big relief, when writing a paper with a lot of drafts, not to write the whole paper over every time you do a new draft. Besides that, the computer has a dictionary so you can check your spelling. If you make an error, you can just correct it on the screen. You can print a lot of different graphics, and you can play on it (if you have time for that). I am very satisfied with my computer and now I could not live without it."

For freshman Lee Joyner of Byron, Georgia, Wesleyan's Computer Focus program "has had a great impact on my enthusiasm about doing schoolwork. My individual study habits are focused on and enhanced by using the Macintosh. Most of my assignments involve the computer in some way. I also use the computer for personal projects: letter writing, drawing, organizing, etc."

The new computer that freshman Divika Washington of Lithonia, GA received has been "very helpful" to her, as well as other students. "I have been working with computers for about three years now, and these are the best that I have come across. With all of the notes and term papers that have to be written, the computers are great for keeping track of and printing out these items. In the near future, many businesses will incorporate the use of computers. It is a good idea for the freshmen to be acquainted with the basic skills of the computer."

Faculty Have Computer Plans

Students are not the only ones working with computers. The faculty can conduct research, create tutorials, and enhance class presentations by the use of visual images and simulations. Someday, students and faculty might even be able to communicate with each other via a computer network.

Hilary Kight, assistant professor of math, doesn't know how she taught for the past 25 years without a computer. "I don't know what I did without it," she said. Now as a computer "convert," she uses the computer in her classes to demonstrate problems. In addition, Kight has developed homework assignments on the computer. She says it is easier, quicker, and neater for the students to learn with a computer. "It makes math concepts clearer."

The physical science students of W.C. Wyatt, assistant professor of science, use computers to analyze data. Since all of his students don't have a computer, this analysis is done in the computer lab. But eventually, when all students have a computer, a set of programs will be given to each student at the start of the course.

Wyatt plans to write the analysis program for each lab exercise. "It is great to be able to do a complete analysis of any lab by looking at the total data of the class and not just one individual," Wyatt said. Ultimately, he wants to develop tutorials for quick reviews. He also uses his computer to make up tests and record grades. As chair of the programs and exhibitions committee, Wyatt uses the computer to write programs for convocations.

Sharon Foster, assistant professor of education, created a program that takes students through the process of designing a classroom using graphics. In the assignment, students plan three learning centers and write the objectives, materials, and procedures needed for each center.

This project was a real challenge for her junior and senior students. They had little or no prior computer experience and had to learn the initial orientation of the Macintosh plus the new program. Initially, Foster's students were very anxious, but the students have acquired a computer confidence.

"What we fear most is the unknown and out of that we talked about the concept of presenting new and foreign material to children," Foster said. Her students had a deeper learning experience than they probably realized.

In the music department, Fletcher Anderson, professor of music, has a Yamaha keyboard hooked up to his computer through an interface. This allows him to play something on the keyboard while the computer records the notes and vice versa. The computer even provides a print-out of the notes on a scale. Anderson uses this setup to provide musical examples and exercises for his students who seem glad to have it. "The computer makes everything more efficient and I know the students are getting the correct information," Anderson said. This is a quicker and better method for him to illustrate lessons.

New Computer Focus Director

"The goal of the program," said the new director of Computer Focus, Keith Hamon, "is to make Wesleyan a more active, intellectual, and vital community. Computer Focus will promote more activity on the part of faculty and students, making Wesleyan a better place to live and learn. It will enhance the reputation of the college nationwide, retain students, and make students and faculty more computer-literate."

Hamon comes to Wesleyan from Mercer University where he developed and managed a learning center and a computerized lab. He has taught business, engineering, and academic and creative writing courses at the University of Miami, University of Houston, Miami-Dade Community College, Reinhardt College, and Mercer University. Hamon earned a B.A. in literature and religion from Lee College, an M.A. in English literature from Arkansas State University, and a D.A. in communications and composition from the University of Miami.

Computers change the writing process, according to Hamon. "Computers encourage revision and playfulness. They help to hook writers, especially those who don't like to write, because it's so much easier to make changes and corrections.

"Avid computer-users establish a relationship with their computer," Hamon said. "Some people have a sense that there is someone inside doing the work. You don't have a relationship with your pencil. You change pencils easily, but not so with a computer."

In the computer lab, which Hamon supervises, students and faculty will find 10 Macintoshes and 10 IBM personal computers, various software programs, and a laser printer.

One day, Hamon would like all Wesleyan computers to be networked with information services and databases. He would like to see computers used more in the classroom as a teaching facility and "for students and faculty to learn how to use the computer as a blackboard."

Computer Focus Off And Running

Even though Wesleyan's Computer Focus program is still in the infancy stage, it is rapidly gaining popularity and a strong following of dedicated students and faculty. The direction of Computer Focus will take its lead from the interest and needs of that following.

The faculty Computer Focus committee is working with two consultants to develop an assessment program. They will set goals and determine specific ways to achieve those goals.

Computer Focus is not only the Wesleyan way to teach and learn, but also the Wesleyan way to grow personally and professionally. ☛

Entrepreneurship:

A Career Choice For Women

Responsible. Committed. Opportunistic. Frightened. Strong-willed. These words describe four Wesleyan alumnae entrepreneurs who have distinguished themselves in different businesses in different parts of the country.

The women are Alexis D. Xides Bighley '67, chief executive and financial officer of Gift Creations Concepts in New Brighton, MN; Margaret Manson Buckel '50, director and owner of the Martha Manson Academy, Inc. in Gainesville, FL; Dr. Sharon Hopkins '75, orthodontist in Mableton, GA; and Lynda Brinks Pfeiffer '63, executive vice president of finance and administration for Computer Business Applications, Inc. in Glendale, CA.

Webster's defines an entrepreneur as "one who organizes, manages and assumes risks of a business or enterprise." This is an apt description of all four alumnae entrepreneurs.

From these women, a profile of a women entrepreneur emerges to reveal a special person who took her education at Wesleyan seriously. A woman entrepreneur made the choice to go into a business of her own, worked very hard, persevered, succeeded in her endeavor, and still strives to excel.

The rewards derived from their efforts served as the impetus for these unique women to start and maintain their own businesses. The joy and fulfillment of being the boss is definitely worth all the trouble and sacrifice.

The academic and personal growth they experienced at Wesleyan proved to be the foundation for their successes. Each one is an excellent example of an individual with a vision to build her own business, and the determination to control her future and to make her own choices.

Alexis D. Xides Bighley '67

Seizing an opportunity was the turning point in the career of Alexis D. Xides Bighley '67. She is still thrilled with the decision she made to start her own company. Gift Creations Concepts in New Brighton, MN is the largest buying syndicate of independently owned retail gift shops. GCC produces over nine million specialty advertising vehicles for its 250-member retail shop owners which generate a combined annual volume of $32 million.

Many years ago, Bighley recognized the opportunity to make a choice to be more successful in the gift industry by going into business for herself. She took the risk and today she is chief executive and financial officer of GCC. Her staff is all female which follows her commitment to help women in business. Bighley is also head of the product buying team and travels over 130 days a year.

Throughout all her years in business, Bighley has found a tendency among women to shy away from careers where they have the potential to make money. Instead, they opt for positions with a title. She wants women to know that they have a choice. There are many career opportunities for women of which entrepreneurship is one.

Bighley defines a woman entrepreneur as "an individual who has the unique ability to seize an opportunity to work diligently until a business becomes a reality." According to Bighley, a woman entrepreneur works very hard; focuses on the business; performs many tasks; responds to the needs of the marketplace; and demands a lot of herself and her staff. A woman entrepreneur has the analytical ability needed to draw conclusions.

After 16 years in business, Bighley has experienced the mixed emotions of watching her business grow. She's had a sense of freedom and adventure. Bighley has controlled her own financial destiny. It is not necessary for her to have overall day-to-day control. However, it is important to her to design and develop a vision and to make sure it is executed.

Twenty-two years ago when Bighley graduated with a history degree, Wesleyan did not offer business courses. But Wesleyan did give her the tools to analyze all aspects of business objectively in an outline format. This concept has been instrumental in her success. Wesleyan also gave her the chance to develop personal skills to mature and gain confidence. Bighley feels her education gave her a good, solid foundation for intellectual and private development.

To future entrepreneurs and all women, Bighley says: "You have unlimited opportunities in this wonderful world of ours and I welcome you to address the wonderful world of entrepreneurship."

Margaret Manson Buckel '50

The positive educational experiences that Margaret Manson Buckel '50 received at a private elementary school and at Wesleyan led her to open a private school. This year, the Martha Manson Academy, Inc. in Gainesville, FL is celebrating its 20th year of educating children from preschool to the fifth grade.

Ms. Buckel is owner and director of the fully accredited school which she named after her mother. And she is proud to add, it still retains its original family atmosphere.

The Martha Manson Academy was borne out of a self-appreciation for private education. Buckel taught third grade and music classes at a public school for 12 years. When she was teaching school, Buckel said she "began to appreciate how much she had gained from her private education versus her public education."

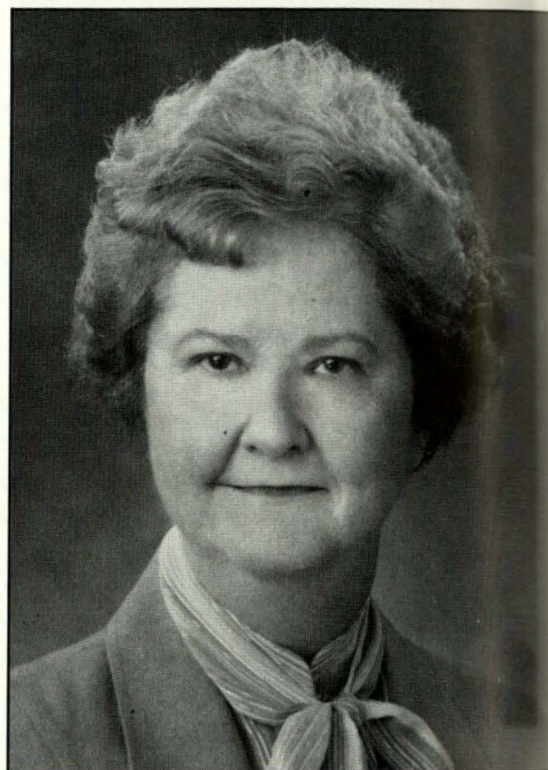

While working as a music consultant for Prentice-Hall publishers, she realized her dream: to start a private school for young children. With the financial backing of her parents, Buckel opened her independent, private school in an old restored house. "It was something I wanted to do," she said.

"It was frightening to step out into the big world," Buckel said. The positive feedback she receives from her students, their families and the community, "makes it all worthwhile." To know that she has given these children a good foundation in their education "makes it exciting to realize that you have had something to do with educating the future of America," she added.

The education Buckel received at a public high school had not adequately prepared her for Wesleyan. Consequently, she had to work very hard. She said it was a bit of a struggle, because the courses at Wesleyan were tough. But it was her experience at Wesleyan that helped her to focus again on private education and to appreciate its special values.

To women thinking of going into business for themselves, Buckel says, "Go for it! There is a sense of self-satisfaction in being your own boss and never a dull moment. People look up to you when they are pleased with what you're doing. There is a certain amount of clout that goes with the territory," Buckel added.

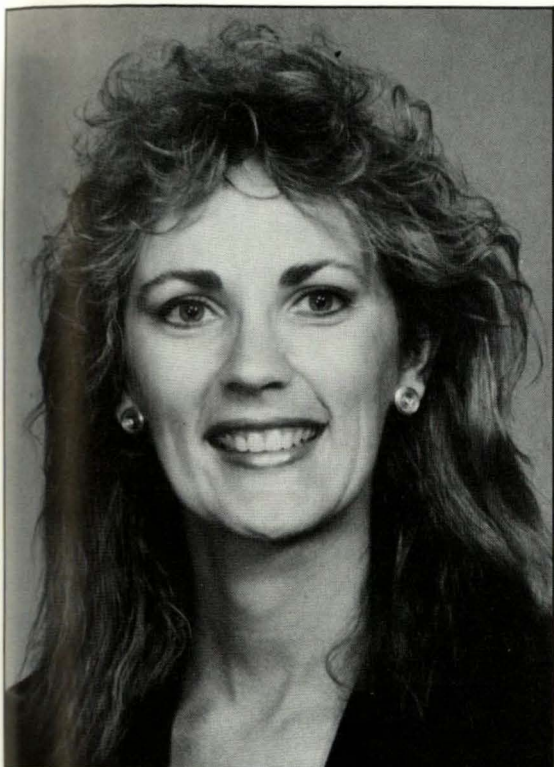

Buckel borrows her words of wisdom for future women entrepreneurs from the Bible. "Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not rely on your own insight. In all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make straight your paths." (Proverbs 3:5,6)

Sharon Mattox Hopkins '75

Since dentists typically work alone, it was a natural move back in 1983 for Sharon Mattox Hopkins '75 to go into private practice in Mableton, GA. She took that one step further by placing her orthodontics practice in a building she purchased.

Real estate was a new dimension for her career. "Otherwise, I would get stagnant and bored," she said. Dr. Hopkins likes to make her own decisions.

Even though a lot of responsibility goes with a private dental practice, Dr. Hopkins enjoys the sense of accomplishment. She says it is fun to work with all of her patients...adults and children and their parents. For Dr. Hopkins, they are her bosses. She answers to them.

She describes setting up her private practice as frightening. But the harder Dr. Hopkins worked and the more her practice grew, the stronger her self-confidence became and the feelings of insecurity began to diminish.

At first, Dr. Hopkins did not like the idea of going to a college for women. However, at the insistence of a high school guidance counselor, she attended Wesleyan and was glad she did.

The absence of male students in class made it easier for her to concentrate on her studies and to enjoy college life. "There were less distractions," she said. Attending Wesleyan was a positive experience for Dr. Hopkins because she received lots of attention from her professors.

Dr. Hopkins said anyone considering a business of their own must "be able to take a risk." Even though she was apprehensive at first, she overcame those feelings and accomplished her goals. She was determined. "It is vital to be prepared, organized and knowledgeable about your business," she said.

For women with an interest in business, Dr. Hopkins' words of wisdom are: "You can have both a career and a family, but you can't do it all by yourself." It's a partnership; a blending of your family life and your professional life.

"Young women think of marriage as a career. But if you decide to work and to have a family, then tailor your situation to meet your goals," Dr. Hopkins said. A key element of her success is the support of her husband and family.

Lynda Brinks Pfeiffer '63

After acquiring the total ownership of a computer business with her husband, Lynda Brinks Pfeiffer '63 made a 100 percent commitment to the business. Even though Wesleyan didn't have business classes 26 years ago, Pfeiffer's psychology degree helped her to work with people. Pfeiffer is a good example of how far one can go with a good, liberal arts education and a strong determination to succeed.

Today, Pfeiffer is executive vice president of finance and administration for Computer Business Applications, Inc. in Glendale, CA. She is responsible for the personnel, finance, and facilities of a company whose mission is to "become the standard against which all retail software will be measured."

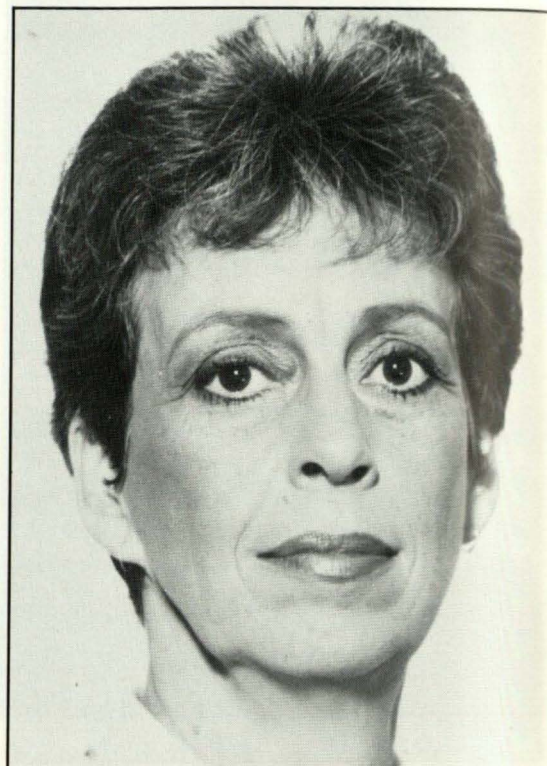

Starting with only three employees, Pfeiffer assembled a team of 72 professionals; opened and staffed two regional offices; established business relationships with four banks; managed the budget from the beginning to its current multi-million dollar status; acquired and established leases for facilities used by regional and corporate offices; and provided the leadership for a swiftly growing company.

For women interested in business, Pfeiffer said, "It is extremely important to know what you are getting into. If you don't have the expertise in your chosen field, find someone who does to serve as your consultant. Make sure you enter a business with a future and be as knowledgeable about the industry as possible," she said.

Pfeiffer has had her business for 10 years and she said the feelings of ownership "range from terror to ecstasy and everything in between. It is a heavy responsibility." Her business must be managed well and run efficiently, because over 70 families depend on its success for their livelihood.

Pfeiffer's commitment is to her employees. They are her Number One obligation. Computer Business Applications uses the team approach; no one can do it alone.

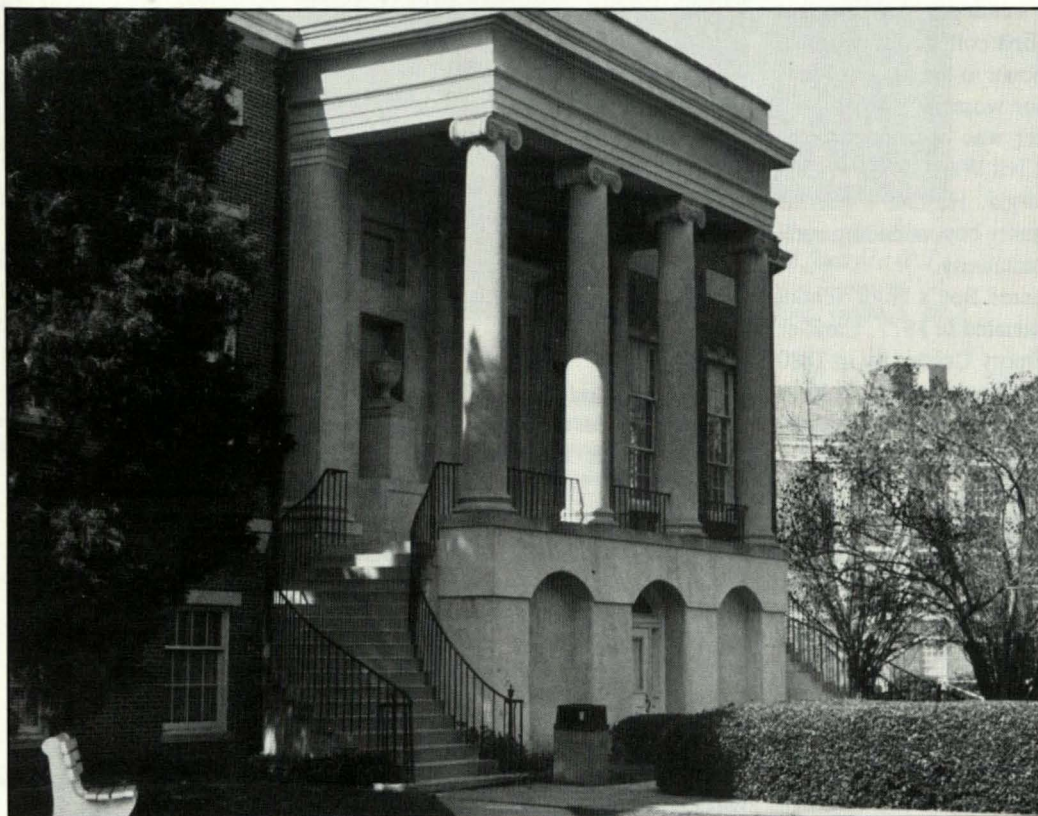

The feelings of acclimation and acceptance from her peers are worth the sleepless nights, weekends spent working and 14-hour days to Pfeiffer. An entrepreneur should "be prepared for incredibly long hours, hard work and success. Because when it works, it's marvelous, a real high. It is something to share with others," she said. 🐼

The Two Lives of the Candler Building

Candler Alumnae Center

The Candler building has had a unique history. It has led two lives. Originally, it was known as the Candler Memorial Library. One of the original buildings on the Wesleyan campus, it housed the library collection from the fall of 1928 to the spring of 1968.

Today, the Alumnae office, the Encore program, and the Center for the Arts are located in the Candler Alumnae Center.

The Candler library was given to Wesleyan by Judge John Slaughter Candler, a member of the board of trustees of Wesleyan from 1922 until his death in 1941. He gave the building in the memory of his father, Samuel Charles Candler, and his mother, Martha Beall Candler. His brother, Asa G. Candler, was the founder of the Coca-Cola Company. His nephew, Asa G. Candler, Jr., presented the Candler Organ to Wesleyan College in honor of his wife. Today, the organ is known as the Goodwyn-Candler Organ and fills the Porter Family Memorial Fine Arts Building with its wonderful music. Another brother, Warren Akin Candler, was president of Emory College and a senior bishop of the Methodist Church.

The Candler Memorial Library was the site of an academic convocation on October 23, 1936 celebrating the school's 100th birthday. The front of the library served as a stage from which the audience heard Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar, declare: "I am here in behalf of woman's colleges to affirm that Wesleyan is the first college for women. I am glad to pay honor to the Magna Charta of education for women."

John S. Candler was born during the first year of the Civil War (1861) in Carroll County, Georgia. He had a normal childhood as a country boy, attending rural schools in the community.

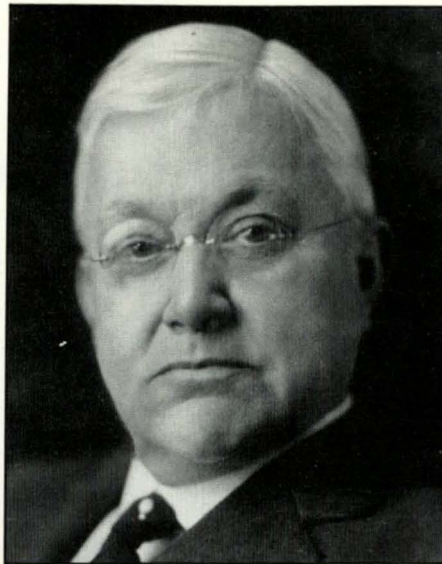

In 1876, he entered Boy's High School in Atlanta and graduated in 1877. Candler graduated from Emory University in 1880 and taught for two years in the DeKalb County, Georgia schools. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1882. When he was only 23 years old, Candler was appointed solicitor general of the Stone Mountain Judicial Circuit.

In 1902, Candler was elected one of the associate justices of the Supreme Court of Georgia, a position he held until 1906 when he reentered private practice. Judge Candler had an illustrious military career and served the Methodist church as a steward for many years. The judge was married three times and had two children by his first wife.

Judge Candler's family has several ties to Wesleyan. Annie Florence Candler Sledd, a member of the class of 1896, was a niece of the judge. Lucy Candler Enrico '04 was his niece. Sarah Candler Gilliland '41 was a cousin of the judge. Sarah's sister, Nelle Candler McNeil, was a member of the class of 1943. Frances Candler Shumway, a great niece of the judge, was assistant professor of history at Wesleyan from 1946 to 1952. Her mother, Frances Godfrey Candler, was a faithful alumna of Wesleyan.

When Judge Candler decided to donate the library in the memory of his parents, he left the planning entirely to the architect and the library committee. The building was designed by Katharine Carnes, who was librarian from 1919 to 1959. Phillip Schutze of Atlanta was the consulting architect.

The exterior of the Candler building is an unusually beautiful example of Georgian architecture patterned after the

Judge John Slaughter Candler

Hermitage Plantation, which was built in 1830, on the Savannah River. The interior follows Greek motif patterns. Ellamae Ellis League '21 landscaped the grounds of the building. Today, the landscaping between the Candler building and Persons Dorm is courtesy of Katherine Jordan Stewart '35 and her husband, Dr. J. Benham Stewart.

In May 1968, the Willet Memorial Library was completed and all library books were transferred to the new building. At this time, the Candler building was closed until 1972 to undergo a remodeling by Ward Dennis, a Macon architect (husband of Helen Ross Dennis '30), and by the original architect, Phillip Schutze. When the building was reopened, it was renamed the Candler Alumnae Center.

The Wesleyan College Alumnae Association was very active with the renovation process. As director of alumnae affairs at that time, Frances Bruce Van Horn '53 coordinated the renovation. Now, she is director of campus and community events. The process took over a year and involved other alumnae. Elizabeth Conner Tucker '48 was the local interior designer. Nina Sheppard Terrell '58 was president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association during the renovation and the late Grace Laramore Hightower '20 was chair of the alumnae renovation committee.

Many of the rooms in the Candler building are now used for a variety of functions. The Oval Hall, which was once the main reading room of the library, is used for student functions, including career day, father/daughter weekend, registration, and receptions.

Community recitals, conferences, and lectures take place in the Benson Room which was once the downstairs reading room of the library. It was named after Catherine Brewer Benson, the first Wesleyan graduate in 1840.

The Linda Anderson Lane Room honors Linda Lane '19. Her namesake and daughter, Linda Lane, a former member of the Wesleyan faculty, is chair of the Wesleyan board of trustees. This room contains Wesleyan memorabilia dating back to the early 1800's. The Lane Room was once the site of the Georgia Room of the original library. Faculty and staff conferences and meetings are held here now.

The Mural Room also is on the first floor of the Candler building with two murals painted by Athos Menaboni. The murals were donated by the Citizens and Southern National Bank.

The two lives of the Candler building enrich all who cross its threshold. The legacy of Judge John Slaughter Candler stands proudly today as a reminder of the dedication and loyalty of those with Wesleyan ties. 🐦

Meet Your Alumnae Board of Managers

Your Alumnae Board of Managers include (standing) Ruth Austin Knox '75, Gloria Boyette Price '60, Jackie Davis Richardson '60, Mary Abbott Waite '68, Betty Jo (B.J.) Hammock Boyes '48, and Gena R. Franklin '71; (seated) Sylvia Newton Summers '64, Harriet Laslie Reynolds '62, Marsha Harris Rudolph '62, and Carole Jones Graham '65.

Remember that candlelit moment when, responding to the Benson Charge, you became an alumna - and accepted the responsibilities, as well as the privileges, of that honor? Alumnae are an important constituency of the College, members of what we might call the larger Wesleyan, the College beyond the campus.

The central purpose of our association is to promote the maintenance, preservation, and growth of Wesleyan College. As elected representatives, the members of the Board of Managers are our eyes and ears, our hands and voices in accomplishing that purpose. Their job is not only to enable alumnae to stay in touch with each other, but to enable us to participate in the life and growth of the college.

The following profiles should help you, not only to better know the role of the Board of Managers, but to know more about current officers. Now you know whom to call - and your representatives want to hear from you.

As president, Gena Roberts Franklin '71 oversees alumnae activities on a national level, serves as liaison between alumnae and the College administration, presides at national meetings and chairs Board of Managers meetings. Gena is currently adjunct instructor in communication at Wesleyan. She previously taught full-time in the speech department and served as chair. Before becoming president, she organized the 1970's decade in Macon for a capital funds campaign and served three years as president-elect of the Alumnae Board of Managers. Among other activities in Macon, she is active in the parents' organization of her children's school.

President-elect Kathy A. Bradley '78 acts as liaison between local clubs and the national organization and assists the president with committee work. Part of the job is to become familiar with the structure and operation of the association to assure smooth transition of leadership. Kathy is a partner in the law firm of Roach & Bradley in Statesboro, GA, though she lives in the country near Register ("not quite the house at the end of the world - that's my cousin's"). She has served Wesleyan as an alumnae admissions representative, Loyalty Fund volunteer, and vice president of the East Georgia Alumnae Club. She is president of the Statesboro Junior Woman's Club and 2nd vice president and campaign section head of the United Way of Southeast Georgia. She also coaches in the Ogeechee Youth Soccer League. She was named Outstanding Citizen (1988) and Outstanding Clubwoman (1989) by the 1st District Georgia Federated Women's Clubs and Outstanding Young Career Woman (1985) by the Statesboro Business and Professional Women's Club.

First Vice President Betty Jo "B.J." Hammock Boyes '48 serves as a liaison between the Board of Managers and the Office of Development. Working to enhance the alumnae role in giving and all aspects of development is the portfolio of this office. B.J. also is our unofficial Ms. Continuity -- she has served previously as member at large, second vice president, Loyalty Fund Campaign chair, and first vice president. In Atlanta, she has served as president, secretary and ways and means chair of the Atlanta club. In addition to working as tour coordinator for Vinings Custom Tours, B.J. gives volunteer service as president of the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Club, chair of a circle of Northside United Methodist Women, a member of the Georgia Tech Parents Steering Committee and a volunteer at the Atlanta Historical Society.

Second Vice President Carole Jones Graham '65 carries the portfolio for recruitment. She serves as chair of the alumnae committee for the recruitment and admission of students and as liaison with the college admissions staff. Working with the Alumnae Admissions Representative Program is an important aspect of this job. Carole is a Gifted Resource Teacher in the Dodge County school system and was named to "Who's Who in American Education, 1989-90." She also has served Wesleyan as an AAR and class loyalty fund representative. In Eastman, GA, Carole has been active in the Garden Club and the Junior Woman's Club (which she organized), and serves on the hospitality committee of First Baptist Church and teaches Sunday school for the Fidelis Class.

Third Vice President is responsible for educational enrichment. She oversees the Carnes Fund and serves as liaison with Encore (formerly the Center for Continuing Studies) and the Women's Leadership Forum. This office is currently vacant.

Fourth Vice President Mary Abbott Waite '68 carries the portfolio for communications and public relations. You wondered whom to blame for the omissions in the class notes, right? She also chairs the Alumnae Awards Committee. A writer and editor in Atlanta, Mary Abbott is a partner in Thompson and Waite Research Associates. She specializes in nonfiction on consumer, business, and nonprofit agency subjects and in fiction. During Wesleyan's sesquicentennial, she wrote a playlet, "The Greater Wesleyan: 150 Years of Church and College Partnership," for presentation to the Annual Conferences of North and South Georgia. She received the Alumnae Award for Distinguished Achievement in 1973. A member of the St. Mark United Methodist choir, she is also a literacy volunteer and works with programs for the homeless.

Secretary Sandra Smisson Tolleson '80 keeps us straight. She records all proceedings of the Alumnae Association, including meetings of the Board of Managers, and handles general correspondence. A resident of Perry, GA, Sandra is busy housebuilding at home, but she finds time to be a community activist. She is president of the Beltista Club, vice chair of the Houston County Hospital Authority, and a member of the board of trustees of the Westfield Schools. She is active in DAR, UDC, KAO, Perry Club Council and Perry United Methodist Church where she teaches Sunday school and chairs a circle. She has been named Outstanding Junior Member by the Georgia State DAR.

Treasurer Karen Connor Shockley '63 chairs the finance committee which manages the portfolio of the association's building and general funds and is responsible for the handling of the funds. She also prepares and presents a financial statement of the Association at each Board of Managers meeting. The principal of Danforth Primary School in Macon, Karen also serves as secretary of the Elementary Principal's Association. While teaching at McEvoy High School in Macon, Karen was named STAR teacher. Karen has served as chairman of the board of the Georgia Industrial Home and as the past president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association. Currently, she is an active member of Vineville Methodist Church and is chairman of the Board of Managers of the Macon Area Christian Enrichment School.

Member-at-Large for Alumnae Affairs Judith Warren Edwards '67 is in charge of Alumnae Weekend and reunions for 1989, 1990, and 1991. An associate broker with Fickling & Walker Company, Judy is the 1990 president of the Macon Board of Realtors, the second woman and second sales associate to be so elected in its 70-year history. A member of the Million Dollar Club, she was named "Realtor of the Year" by the Macon Board in 1987 and nominated for the Georgia Association "Realtor of the Year" Award in 1988. A past president of the Macon Alumnae Association, Judy also has served on the national association finance committee. She is a member of the executive committee and board of trustees of the Macon Heritage Foundation, and a director of Kids Yule Love. Among her honors, she is very proud of receiving the 1989 "Tip Top Dog Award" from the Humane Society for raising over $600 at the "Celebrity Waiter Night" at Beall's 1860.

Member-at-Large for Nominations Debra Stockton '74 chairs the nominating committee that nominates the slate of officers for the Alumnae Association. Debra is a branch manager for Southern Bell Marketing in Atlanta, which honored her by naming her to the President's Club in 1984. She has previously served Wesleyan as director of admissions, admissions counselor, as an alumnae admissions representative, and as fourth vice president of the Board of Managers. Debra is a volunteer for Episcopal Church Women, a thrift shop volunteer and a worker in All Saints Night Shelter for the Homeless. She is also a docent at the Atlanta Botanical Garden. She has been named to Who's Who Among Young Women of America and was selected for the Atlanta Women in Business Directory.

Member-at-Large for Church Relations Marsha Harris Rudolph '62 serves as a liaison to represent the alumnae in the link between the United Methodist Church and the president and the chaplain of the College. Marsha is the owner of Jackie's, a 41-year-old family owned and operated clothing shop in downtown Valdosta. She previously has served as president of the Valdosta Junior Service League. An active member of First United Methodist Church, Marsha serves each year as chair of Caring Christmas Tree Project. She is a member of the church's finance committee and is the pianist for the youth and adult choirs. Marsha has been a Sunday school teacher in the youth department of First Methodist for twenty years.

The Loyalty Fund Co-Chairs for 1989-90, Gloria Boyette Price '60 and Annette Rumph Peery '45 have, as Gloria put it, "the wonderful 'duty' to spread the good, good word of Wesleyan College." Through various activities, they spur all of us on to do a better job of supporting Wesleyan.

Gloria also served as Loyalty Fund chair in 1988-89. In Valdosta, she owns The Landmark and caters parties, appraises antiques, and conducts estate sales. She represents several artists and shows their work. She is president of the Valdosta Heritage Foundation, which gave her the "President's Award for Achievement" in 1987 and 1988, and is active in Christ Episcopal Church. With fellow Wesleyanne Jeanne Nabell Respass '67, she co-chaired Valdosta's first Decorator Showhouse; she's chaired the Annual Spring Tour of Homes for eight years.

A writer in Charlotte, NC, Annette has published Elliot Little, a children's book dedicated to her middle grandchild; articles in Symphony and Presbyterian Survey; poems in Modern Maturity and Oconee Living; short stories in the Charlotte Observer; and has a yet to be published novel completed. She organized and served as the first president of the Charlotte Area Alumnae Association. A deacon and elder at Myers Park Presbyterian Church, she is a past president of the Mecklenburg Girl Scout Council. She has been very active in support of the Charlotte Symphony, serving for 12 years on its Board of Directors and for six on the executive committee. She also is a member of the Charlotte Symphony Women's Association and the Charlotte Community Concert Association and organizing chair for Friends of Music, Queens College.

The Alumnae Trustees Jackie Davis Richardson '60, Harriet Laslie Reynolds '62, and Sylvia Newton Summers '64 serve as ex-officio members of the Alumnae Board of Managers by virtue of their office as college trustees. They are vital liaisons between both organizations.

In Macon, Jackie Richardson is principal for instruction at Southwest High School in the Bibb County System. Through the years, she has been recognized as STAR teacher, Outstanding Young Educator and has been included in Outstanding Young Women of America. Students also honored her with two yearbook dedications. She is past president, vice president and treasurer of the Board of Managers, serving from 1967-1979. She has served as a member of the Student Teacher Advisory Committee for the Wesleyan Education Department. In addition to membership in NEA, GAE, League of Women Voters, and the History Club, she is past president and life member of Phi Delta Kappa and a past officer of Delta Kappa Gamma, both honorary education societies. She has hosted 12 students in the Experiment in International Living. Jackie received the Alumnae Award for Distinguished Service to Wesleyan in 1980.

In Augusta, Harriett Reynolds is active in many civic affairs. She is treasurer of the Augusta Symphony Guild, assistant treasurer of the Augusta Symphony, Inc., secretary of the Heritage Garden Club, finance chairman of the Auxiliary to the Richmond County Medical Society, and sustainer in the Augusta Junior League. Through the years, she has given leadership to many Wesleyan fundraising campaigns.

In Savannah, Sylvia Summers is active in support of the arts and other community

The Kite Stribling group of the Clarksville United Methodist Women honored their mentor, Katharine Suddath Stribling, Habersham, GA, on her 100th birthday with a gift to the church of 10 new Methodist hymnals.

'21
Maude Bradley Lee, who is now living at High Point Personal Care, Perry, GA, reports she is doing fine and would love to have Wesleyan alumnae visit her.

'25
From Friendswood, TX, Autrey Lewis Randall writes that she enjoys keeping in touch with several Wesleyan. Though "slowing down some" in her eighties, she stays busy with reading and other activities.

'28
Annie Mays Larmore, Decatur, GA, writes that Marjorie Jacob Caudill, Decatur, another member of the Atlanta Alumnae Group IV, is very active in working with the Spanish speaking communities of Atlanta. Among other things, she plays organ, trains the choir, teaches an adult Sunday school class and sponsors the women's missionary group at the Central Spanish Speaking Baptist Church. Last January, she went as a volunteer to Panama to train youth choirs. She translated texts and arranged music for a collection of songs and then taught them to youth in small classes.

Sympathy to Margaret Boyd Whitnel, Fulton, KY, on the death of her sister, Carroll Boyd Wadlow '28, Fort Myers, FL. Earlier this year, the two sisters enjoyed three weeks in England. Highlights included a week's stay in a 400-year-old farm house at Ragley, the Duke of Hereford's estate; another week near Stratford (which evoked memories of classes with Agnes Hamilton and Dr. Gignilliat); and a service at Wesley's Chapel in London, where Margaret was asked to sing in the choir.

Sympathy to Virginia Sapp Collier, St. Simons Island, GA, on the death of her sister, Mary E. Sapp '27, on August 4, 1989.

Among the first seven Georgia aviators inducted into the state Aviation Hall of Fame at the Robins Air Force Base Museum of Aviation was the late Hazel Raines of Macon. She was the first Georgia woman to receive a commercial pilot's license. Ms. Raines, who died in 1956, qualified as an Eastern pilot in 1939. During World War II, as a member of the Royal Air Force in Canada, she was a flight instructor and ferried Spitfires to the front. As a member of the Women's Air Service Pilots, she tested planes and ferried targets. Rose Mary McKelvey '77 is executive director of the museum.

After retiring from Welch Scientific Company in 1981, Rose Pendergrass Hilyer, Springfield, NJ, has a full volunteer career. She is active in library and church work, a giftshop run by Paper Mill Playhouse Guild, the Woman's Club, Meals on Wheels, and hospital work. Her son is a United Methodist minister in the North Carolina Conference. She greatly enjoys her grandson and granddaughter.

Margaret Stubbs Gordon, Macon, GA, and her husband, Stewart, are the delighted and active grandparents of Jamie Lynn Rohde, 1, daughter of their son, John Rohde, and his wife, Gail. Jamie spends the days with her grandparents.

Painting, ceramics, crafts, bridge, canasta, and church work keep Ella Pearl (Eppie) Pinson Hall, Zellwood, FL, busy in retirement - when she's not working as a contract typist, that is. Husband Fred is retired from government work.

Emily Boswell Murphey, Bainbridge, GA, teaches two groups of women each week in a Home Bible Study Group. She and her husband, Clay, together teach another Bible Study Group in Albany. Both sons and their families live in Macon, where Julian heads the commercial department at Fickling Walker Real Estate and Lee is senior vice president at Trust Company Bank.

Goodwyn-Candler Organ Dedication

The Candler Organ at Wesleyan College was rededicated in honor of its renovation and given a new name, the Goodwyn-Candler Organ, November 28. The rededication concert was open to the public.

Richard C. Looney, bishop of the South Georgia Conference of the United Methodist Church, gave the litany dedication. Robert Glasgow, organist and professor of organ at the University of Michigan, performed at the recital concert. There was a reception immediately following the concert for everyone to meet Bishop Looney, Dr. Glasgow, and Mrs. Elsie L. Hambright.

A generous donation from Mrs. Hambright, a 1934 Wesleyan graduate, a Wesleyan trustee and Macon resident, made it possible to renovate the organ. Mrs. Hambright requested that the organ be renamed in the memory of her grandmother, Belle Pound Goodwyn, a Wesleyan graduate of the class of 1874.

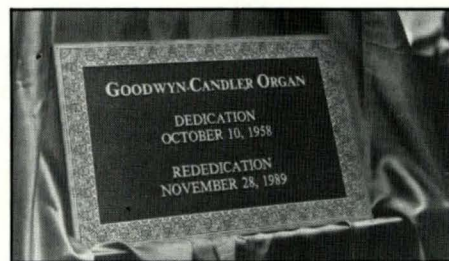

Dr. Glasgow also conducted a seminar, "Romantic Organ Music for the Practicing Church Musician."

Over 30 years ago, J.C. Horton and D.H. Woodall completely rebuilt the organ when it was first given to Wesleyan by Asa G. Candler, Jr. in honor of his wife. The Candler Organ (its original name) was formally dedicated on October 10, 1958. Horton attended the rededication recital. 🐾

Message From The President

Dr. Robert K. Ackerman

Dear Alumnae:

Special greetings to each of you! We were delighted to learn that U.S. News and World Report has for the second year given Wesleyan a national ranking. The order is a bit different from last year, but we believe that we have advanced. Last year, we were twenty-third of the top 25 (of over 300 institutions). This year, we were sixth in the top 10 of the South (the nation being divided into four regions). Specific ranking notwithstanding, this is a wonderful vote of confidence in the future of this grand old institution.

Each of you is a colleague in the progress of Wesleyan toward its goal of being recognized by the year 2000 as the pre-eminent institution for women in the Southeast. We need you (to use a good nautical term) to "turn to."

1) Help us recruit more and better students. You can be the best judge of the young women who can benefit by the Wesleyan experience. The alumnae of the finest schools are invariably the most active in recruiting for their alma maters.

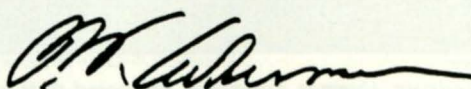

2) Help us with the Annual Loyalty Fund. We need significant progress in financial support from alumnae in the annual fund. No college can progress far without a broad and deep base of alumnae support. If you have been giving $100, consider advancing to $500 or $1,000. If you have been giving $1,000, consider advancing to several or $10,000, and so on.

3) Include Wesleyan in your estate planning. Many of you have already done this and have thereby qualified for membership in The Society for the Twenty-First Century. This is the insurance of Wesleyan's future. I am pleased to report to you that we had a goal of having 100 charter members of the Society, and we have 147. That is wonderful.

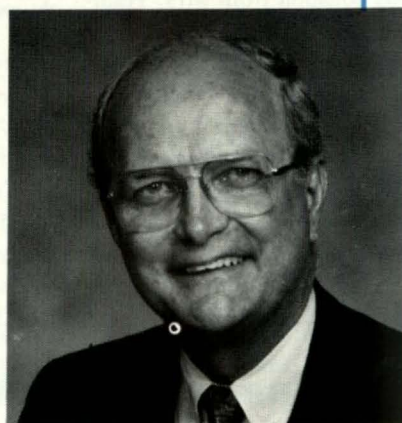

4) Perhaps most important, maintain or rekindle your interest in Wesleyan. Visit the campus, attend college and alumnae functions. Return to your alma mater.

With fine colleagues such as you, I am confident that Wesleyan's future is one of greater and greater achievements.

Sincerely,

R. K. Ackerman

Wesleyan Cliff Notes

Wesleyan Well Represented by President

As the 22nd president of Wesleyan College, Dr. Robert K. Ackerman holds many professional and civic leadership positions. Dr. Ackerman is a member of the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, president of the Association of Private Colleges and Universities in Georgia, and vice president of the Georgia Foundation for Independent Colleges.

He is on the boards of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, the Macon Symphony (president) and the Grand Opera House in Macon. He has served as a member and chairman of accreditation teams of the Southern and Middle States Associations of Colleges and Schools.

Dr. Ackerman is a member of the Macon Chapter of Rotary International and Palavers, an organization which promotes the exchange of ideas through research, papers and discussion on wide-ranging topics by its members. He is a member of the administrative board and the pastor/parish relations committee at the Mulberry Street United Methodist Church. He also is a lay delegate to the South Georgia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church. Dr. Ackerman served on the "blue ribbon" advisory panel for the Macon Arts Alliance's community cultural plan and on the Bibb County literacy committee.

Counseling Program Wins Award

Wesleyan was one of 12 schools to be awarded a 1989 certificate of merit for academic advising programs. The award was sponsored jointly by the American College Testing program and the National Academic Advising Association.

This national award was given in recognition of innovative and/or exemplary practices, which have resulted in the improvement of academic advising services. In a letter to Wesleyan, the committee said it was "impressed with the uniformly high quality of all program submissions. In the judgment of the committee, your program was outstanding."

The academic advising program is coordinated by Dr. Priscilla Danheiser, acting dean, in collaboration with Dr. Glenda Earwood-Smith, dean of student services, and Fred Indenbaum, director of counseling and placement.

Wesleyan Volunteers Against Illiteracy

Sixty-seven Wesleyan students have been trained to teach Bibb County adults to read as part of the new volunteer program, Wesleyan Volunteers Against Illiteracy. The students are devoting 2½ hours per week to the project per client for a total of five hours of community service per week. The purpose of this new volunteer project is to instill a spirit of voluntarism in Wesleyan students and at the same time to help curb an adult illiteracy rate of 35,000 in Bibb County.

As Wesleyan's volunteer coordinator, Evelyn Adams said a relationship must be established between the tutor and the student that incorporates sincere interest and positive reinforcement. Tutors need to be creative and flexible. "Teaching an adult to read is very different from teaching a child," Adams said. "An adult is highly motivated and eager to learn how to read."

The volunteer project is being funded in part by a grant of $25,762 from the U.S. Department of Education's Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education.

Benefactors Day Celebrated

Wesleyan College reinstituted Benefactors Day on November 16 with a program in Porter Auditorium followed by lunch for the Wesleyan community and the College's benefactors.

The Benefactors Day program included these College speakers: Dr. Robert Ackerman, president; Donald J. Welch, vice president for institutional advancement; Rev. T. Mark Ledbetter, chaplain; Lori A. Reese, president of the Student Government Association; the Wesleyan Glee Club sang; and Michelle Toole, vice president of the Council on Religious Concerns.

The first Benefactors Day was held at Wesleyan on Friday, May 12, 1882, in the college chapel in honor of George Ingham Seney of Brooklyn, NY, who was 56 years old that day. In 1881, Seney donated $125,000 to the College, making him the first major benefactor of Wesleyan. He was a Christian philanthropist, who believed in furthering education.

147 Members Provide for Wesleyan's Future

Charter members in The Society for the Twenty-First Century at Wesleyan College total 147, surpassing the 100 member goal by almost 50 per cent. The Society for the Twenty-First Century is a planned giving program established by Wesleyan to provide for the future of the school.

Members in this Society are planning for Wesleyan's tomorrows by naming the school as a beneficiary in their wills, insurance policies, gift annuities, and other planned gift arrangements. The Society is a new organization recognizing individuals who have made provisions for Wesleyan.

Linda Lane, president of The Society for the Twenty-First Century and chair of the Wesleyan board of trustees, said, "The Society is simply a way to say 'thank you' to those individuals who have taken the appropriate steps to ensure that Wesleyan College continues to thrive into the twenty-first century—and far beyond."

Membership is open to anyone who provides a signed statement or other documentation regarding their completed planned gift for the future of Wesleyan. Generally, planned gifts of any type or amount will qualify a donor for membership. Gifts may be unrestricted in nature or designated for a particular purpose or program at Wesleyan. Permanent, named endowment funds may also be created to recognize the donor's family or other loved ones. ☺

Linda Lane Elected Chair of Trustee Board

Wesleyan College trustees, meeting in their regular October session, elected Linda Lane as chair of the board and Neva Fickling as vice-chair of the board.

A native of Macon and former faculty member at Wesleyan, Lane has served on the Wesleyan board of trustees for six years. A concert pianist, she earned the Bachelor of Arts degree from Vassar College in 1950 and the Master of Music degree with the highest distinction from Indiana University in 1958. Lane studied piano under Isabell Vengerova in New York City for four years, then came to Wesleyan, where for many years she was a member of the music faculty.

Lane has performed frequently at colleges and universities throughout the Southeast in chamber music and solo recitals. In 1975, she made her London debut recital in Wigmore Hall. She has performed with the Atlanta Symphony, the Savannah Symphony and twice with the Macon Symphony.

A sustaining member of the Junior League, she is on the board of directors for MidSummer Macon and the Macon Symphony Orchestra. She is a member of the Morning Music Club and the Macon Town Committee of the Colonial Dames. A member of Vineville United Methodist Church, she was Macon area chairman of Wesleyan's recent Campaign for Advancement. Currently, she is president of The Society for The Twenty-First Century, a planned giving program at the college.

Neva Fickling has been a member of the Wesleyan board of trustees since 1987. A native of Lakeland, FL, she attended Florida Southern College for a year. She graduated cum laude from Wesleyan Conservatory in 1955. In 1953, she was crowned Miss America.

Currently, she serves on the boards of the Atlanta Symphony and the Macon Symphony. Former board member of the National Symphony in Washington, D.C., she is a past president of the Macon Morning Music Club. An accomplished pianist, she appeared with the Macon Symphony in 1985.

A member of the board of the Macon Cherry Blossom Festival, she has served on the board of the Macon Arts Alliance and the Museum of Arts and Sciences. From 1978 to 1983, she served on the Georgia Council for the Arts and Humanities.

In recognition of her achievements in the arts, Wesleyan College in 1984 awarded her a Doctorate of Fine Arts. At Alumnae Weekend this year, the Wesleyan College Alumnae Association gave her the Distinguished Service to the Community award.

She is currently a board member of the Georgia Botanical Gardens and a past president of the Macon House and Garden Club. In 1979, the governor appointed her to a three-year term as the first chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Georgia Clean and Beautiful. A judge for the Keep America Beautiful in 1979, she was honored by that organization with its highest award, the Lady Bird Johnson Award. She is a contributing editor to Southern Accents magazine.

She has served on the boards of the Georgia Trust for Historic Preservation, the Hay House, and the Grand Opera House. Under her leadership, a Junior League fundraising project generated $100,000 to restore the Grand Opera House. Among other special projects, she participated on the City of Macon Bicentennial Committee and the Georgia Chamber of Commerce Bicentennial Committee. In 1979, she was named Macon Woman of the Year. 🍀
